

Senator McClellan
on Increasing Cost of U. S. Government

On March 8 Senator John L. McClellan of Arkansas, chairman of the Committee on Expenditures in the Executive Department, made an historic report to the United States Senate. I have just received that report in the mail (Document No. 150, 81st Congress, 2nd Session).

In his letter transmitting the report Senator McClellan addressed the president of the Senate as follows:

"Dear Mr. President: On February 22, I addressed the Senate relative to the present fiscal policies of our government and the administration's legislative program. In my remarks at that time I undertook to emphasize the dangers that are inherent in the incurring of large annual deficits and maintaining a standard of governmental services beyond our means to support. I tried to point out that with a 5 1/2 billion dollar deficit for the present fiscal year and another deficit for fiscal year 1951 of about the same amount or more, it is obvious that without greatly increasing taxes we can not possibly meet already established obligations and ever balance the budget again, unless we are willing to discontinue some of the government services that are now provided, discontinue some programs we are now supporting, and drastically reduce the cost of others.

"In view of our present fiscal difficulties which present an almost insurmountable obstacle, I warned that instead of our pursuing a course of action calculated to correct this condition, we are being asked to enact a multitude of new laws, to expand further existing governmental services and programs and to create additional and new obligations that will increase the cost of the federal government within the next few years to some 65 billion dollars or more.

"A few days after I made that address a colloquy occurred in the Senate between our distinguished majority leader, Senator Lucas, and the able senior senator of Virginia, Senator Byrd, in which the senator from Virginia pointed out that two years ago, in the fiscal year 1948, the expenditures of the federal government were only 34 billion and that we are now spending 43 billion plus — an increase of 9 billion within two years' time. The senator from Virginia further stated that about 6 billion dollars of this increase during the past two years was for non-war-connected domestic civilian spending; that it was not occasioned by either foreign or domestic spending for defense.

"As a result of the government living beyond its income, the national debt is rising again. Our national debt reached its lowest figure of $251,245,889,050.02 on June 27, 1949. Since that date, in less than nine months' time, the national debt has increased by 5 billion dollars, or in round numbers to 256 billions.

"If we do not stop passing laws calling for more spending, there is neither prospect nor hope for revenues to cover again overtake or equal expenditures. We can stop it. This Congress can stop that trend by reducing appropriations for the next fiscal year and by deferring action on or passage of many bills that are now pending in the Congress that would produce large, increased expenditures. I sincerely hope that we will have both the wisdom and courage to do our statesmanlike and patriotic duty in meeting the exigencies of the situation."

Warns Italy
Will Cling
to Trieste

Milan, Italy, April 8 — (AP) — Italian Foreign Minister Count Carlo Sforza warned the Western powers today Italy would not give up her claim to Trieste.

In a speech reflecting widespread Italian fears of an Allied outbreak on the free territory, Sforza renewed his country's offers to settle all differences with Yugoslavia — which controls part of the Trieste territory — by direct negotiation.

But he emphasized the starting point for any accord must be the return of Trieste to Italy.

Trieste was established as a free territory by the Italian peace treaty. The United States, Britain and France proposed giving the territory back to Italy two years ago, on the eve of the Communist-ruined Italian general election. Russia turned the proposal down.

Since then Yugoslavia has broken from the Soviet orbit and there has been growing concern in Italy lest the Western powers back down on their proposal in a gesture toward premier Marshal Tito.

130 Farmers
Hear Cotton
Law Explained

At a Hempstead county farm bureau meeting yesterday afternoon in the Hope City Hall more than 130 interested farmers heard explanation and discussions of the correction in inequities in cotton allotments under the new acreage law. Joe Hardin of Grady, president of the Arkansas Farm Bureau Federation, the scheduled speaker gave the provisions of the law. J. L. Wright of Little Rock, PMA State Administrator, told how the law for more cotton acres would be administered. Ury McKemie of Shover Springs, president of the county farm bureau, presided.

The Cotton Acreage Allotment Law requires that an application in writing must be made to the Hempstead county PMA committee with offices in the county courthouse at Hope before the individual can be given an adjustment under the law. In compliance with the provisions of the law, the State PMA committee has set April 20 as the final date for the making of these applications.

The discussion of which most of the farmers in attendance participated disclosed that the law provided that no farmer's acreage quota shall be reduced to less than 65 per cent of the highest acreage in any one of the three years, whichever is the higher. In neither case will allotments greater than 40 per cent of the total tillable acreage of the farm be allowed.

Mr. Wright told the group that a farmer could find out in a very few minutes upon making the written request what acreage increase the local county committee could allow within the adjusted acreage for the farm. He further stated that farmers not being satisfied with the new acreage if any provided under the adjusted acreage figure could apply after Wednesday or Thursday of next week to the County PMA committee for a hearing before the review committee where he would have a chance to present acreage evidence and prove his acreage. The review committee for Hempstead county was indicated to be a committee of farmers from Nevada county, probably the Nevada County PMA committee. The County PMA committee will be expected to publicize the appeal and review procedure.

The State Farm Bureau president along with the local Bureau leaders, emphasized the provisions of the law stressing that inequities be corrected in line with actual farm plantings and not plantings and not just to be adjusted figures.

The following is an extract of the report of the Conference committee of the Congress on the "Bill" which expresses, in part, its intent in respect to the operation of the Cotton Acreage Law: "Under this resolution (which is now the law) the review committee may, upon such evidence as it deems sufficient to warrant such action, adjust the cotton acreage history for individual farms without regard to any requirement or action by the county committee that individual farm histories in the aggregate were not permitted to exceed the county acreage as determined by the Bureau of Agricultural Economics."

It was pointed out that farmers having cotton acreage that they were not going to use, could release this acreage to the County PMA committee for use of other farmers. This acreage not to be used if kept by the farmer would lower the acreage for the county in the future and in many instances be lost to the individual farmer.

Youngsters
Invited to Egg Hunt

The Chamber of Commerce was advised by wire today that the Easter Bunny would definitely have a representative at the first annual community Easter egg hunt scheduled for 2:30 p. m. Easter Sunday afternoon at Fair park.

All children eight years of age or under are invited to participate in the hunt. Children are asked to bring some type of container to put their eggs in, as there will be 6500 candy eggs available on the ground. The playground area is being encircled with paper tape and all are asked to refrain from entering the area until the starting signal is given.

Gold, silver and blue eggs are redeemable for cash prizes. The eggs and cash awards are being furnished the Chamber of Commerce by Meyer's Bakery.

In case of rain the egg hunt will be postponed until the following Sunday afternoon.

Park Project
Suggested for Garden Clubs

"Sell Arkansas to Everyone", Mrs. Joe Hardin, state president of the Arkansas Federation of Garden Clubs, told a Southwest Arkansas zone meeting at First Methodist church here Thursday afternoon.

"We have such a beautiful countryside, we should share it with our neighbors," she declared in pointing out that one of the best projects a garden club could sponsor would be roadside parks to attract the visitor.

"Out of state tourists will stop. The traveler will rest, picnic, and will like us so well, that often times he will decide to stay", Mrs. Hardin said.

More than 100 representatives from nearly 50 garden clubs of Southwest Arkansas attended the annual meeting.

In her message to the group meeting, Mrs. Hardin related the most important functions and activities of the state organization the past several months. She urged whole-hearted cooperation in attending the state convention to be held at Hot Springs June 9 and 10. She especially urged the newly-elected officers of various clubs to attend.

In her address, she urged all club members to maintain a neat scrapbook, inserting into it all newspaper clippings of activities and pieces of improvement projects.

"Not only is a scrapbook of all activities of your club an advantage to have in the event you should try for a state award, but it is a permanent record for your club. If you have done any outstanding service, it should be known — it will serve as an inspiration for all", Mrs. Hardin said.

Mrs. Charles Wylie, state vice-president of Hope, presided at the meeting. Following the invocation by Mrs. R. L. Broach of Hope, Mrs. Wylie introduced Charles A. Armitage, secretary of Hope Chamber of Commerce, who delivered the welcoming address.

Mrs. Jack Cooper, president of the Prescott Garden club, gave the response.

Among the state officers who were introduced were: Secretary, Mrs. Tom L. Steed of Pine Bluff; flower show chairman, Mrs. H. R. Wood of Grady; Program chairman, Mrs. Walter Tate of Camden; Librarian, Mrs. Jesse Crow of Prescott; and Junior Gardeners, Mrs. Shelly Atkinson, North Little Rock.

Splendid reports were submitted by the presidents of the various clubs represented at the meeting.

L. R. Bus System
Takes Fare to Circuit Court

Little Rock's intra-city bus system has gone to court in an effort to get a 10-cent fare.

Pulaski Circuit court yesterday granted Capital Transportation company a review of the Arkansas Public Service commission order authorizing six fares for 55 cents.

Until the court passes on the case, riders will continue to pay 10 cents straight.

They also will continue to receive rebate slips redeemable if the court finally upholds PSC.

The commission had ordered the slips, which have been issued during pendency of the rate case, redeemed for one cent each.

The order was to have been effective today.

West Germany
Wants Freer
Trade

Frankfurt, Germany, April 8 — (AP)—Western European countries want freer trade with Soviet Russia and her Eastern European satellites.

A request for relaxation of the barriers imposed by the United States under the Marshall plan is expected to come up at the May conference of French, British and American foreign ministers in London.

Authoritative sources say several of the more industrialized Western European countries are anxious to lift some of the bars on trade with their traditional markets to the East because they can not find markets for their manufactures elsewhere.

Many American European aid officials are said to back this claim. They believe the state department blacklist on potential materials is doing more economic harm than good to Europe's rehabilitation.

This view is supported by the argument that American taxpayers, through the Marshall plan, have to make up the deficits created by the ban on this age-old East-West trade.

One of World's Greatest Dancers Dies

London, April 8 — (AP) — Vasya Nijinsky, 60 one of the world's greatest dancers, died in a London clinic today. He had been insane for 31 years.

Nijinsky, a native of Russia, had come to England in his long search for mental health. His mind snapped in 1919, when he was at the height of his career. Many critics unhesitatingly called him the greatest dancer who ever lived.

Nijinsky was born in Kiev on Feb. 28, 1890, while his mother was on a dancing tour. His birth certificate was filed in Warsaw, Poland, however, to save him from Russian military service.

After his graduation from the Imperial School of Dancing he joined the Imperial Russian ballet, where under the tutelage of Sergei Diaghilev, he quickly became its brightest star. He stormed Paris in a ballet organized by Diaghilev.

Nijinsky married Romola Pulzky, the daughter of a famous Hungarian actress, in Buenos Aires in 1913.

Hundreds View
Bodies of Slain Men

Kansas City, April 8 — (AP) — Friends and political followers of faction boss Charles Binaggio and his strong-arm aide, Charles Gargotta, filed past their caskets today.

The two, found slain together early Thursday morning in their first district Democratic club, lay side by side in death.

Hundreds viewed the bodies last night. Small traffic jams clogged the area of the funeral home.

But no progress in searching for clues in their murder was reported.

Police continued to question associates of the dead men yesterday. Stores that Binaggio had failed to deliver after a promise to open up the state for gambling were checked as police included men listed as gamblers in their quizzes.

And out-of-town trips, especially to St. Louis were scanned.

In a copyrighted story the St. Louis Star-Times has reported that Binaggio practically received a death sentence in that city last January. The paper said gamblers were angry because of Binaggio's inability to open up gambling after accepting heavy loans in the state political campaign two years ago.

A search through the safe in the club where the two men were found shot in the head was planned this morning.

But nothing to lead to the killers was expected. Henry McKissick, president of the club, told police last night only a list of club members could be found in the safe.

Night Guards
Found Slain
in Washington

Washington, April 7 — (AP) — Two night watchmen were found mysteriously stabbed to death with a butcher knife early today in Lunsburgh's department store, one of the city's largest.

The bound and gagged body of John C. Carpenter, 66, was lying in a first floor washroom. His partner, Oliver R. Hess, 56, was found near a blood-splattered elevator on the sixth floor.

Both victims apparently had been waylaid on their rounds of the store. Ironically, neither was normally scheduled for night time duty. Illness of other employees had forced a change of assignments.

Police said they had turned up no motive and few clues, though there were some indications that the men were attacked by one or more burglars. Whether anything was stolen was not determined immediately.

A watchman's keys were found on the inside of an entrance door, indicating the slayer or slayers escaped by that route.

Carpenter apparently had put up terrific fight. His broken glasses, wallet and some change were strewn outside the door to the washroom.

Police Chief Robert J. Barrett said he believed Hess was snuggled as he opened the freight elevator door on the sixth floor and "could not have known what hit him." He was then dragged from the elevator. Hess carried a gun but had no chance to use it.

Although the Gregorian calendar was started in 1582, it was not adopted for the British empire, until 1752.

Probers Widely Split on the Lattimore Case

Washington, April 8 — (AP) — Senate investigators split on a stormy issue today — whether FBI records completely clear Owen Lattimore, accused by Senator McCarthy of being a Communist spy.

Any conclusion that the records do entirely absolve Lattimore is "unwarranted," said Republican Senator Hickenlooper of Iowa.

On the other hand, Democratic Senator Tydings of Maryland declared he is standing by his statement that the FBI data put Lattimore "completely in the clear."

Tydings heads the senate foreign relations subcommittee which is investigating the charges brought by McCarthy, Wisconsin Republican, against Lattimore, an American authority on Far Eastern affairs.

Hickenlooper is a member of the five-man inquiry committee, which heard Lattimore call McCarthy's accusations "base and contemptible lies."

Tydings told Lattimore that four members of the committee — all but Hickenlooper — had been given a complete summary of the FBI's Lattimore file. Hickenlooper was out of town the day FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover and Attorney General J. Howard McGrath presented the analysis to the group.

Tydings told Lattimore it was the opinion of the committee members who were present, and all others in the room — he later named Hoover and McGrath — that "there was nothing in that file to show that you were a Communist, or ever had been a Communist, or that you were in any way connected with espionage information on charges." Then Tydings added:

"So that the FBI puts you completely, up to this moment at least, in the clear."

Receiver Takes Over All Assets
of Powell-Nash

Talbot Field, Jr., local attorney, in an order issued yesterday by Chancery Judge Steel, has been named receiver and instructed to take over all assets of the Powell-Nash Company here except those connected in pending suits in Hempstead Circuit Court.

In previous action Mr. Field was named court receiver for mortgage holders and conducted auction of the Powell-Nash Co. On March 30, the court ruled that all funds derived from the auction not be disbursed until court approval.

But other creditors have filed intervention asking that the mortgage be set aside as an invalid attempt by a corporation to prefer certain creditors to the detriment of other creditors.

The petition asking that the foreclosure of mortgage holders be set aside was filed by Standard Paint Co., Texarkana, who have a judgment out of Hope Municipal Court for $143.

Greening Insurance Agency of Joplin, who has a Circuit Court judgment for $1,344 and Automotive Parts Co. of Texarkana who has a $320 judgment.

All three of the young enlistees are now at Ft. Riley, Kan., either for reassignment in the case of Private Sulzer, or basic training for Recruits Brown and Johnson.

Ruling Made on Sentencing of Youths

Little Rock, April 8 — (AP) — A youth to be the Arkansas Boys Industrial school for a definite term.

However, the judge may commit the youth to the school for an indefinite period.

Assistant Attorney General Arnold Adams pointed out this distinction yesterday.

Only circuit court judges — or circuit judges on pleas of guilty — may impose a definite sentence. Adams said the Arkansas Supreme court had ruled directly on the point.

Small Clue
Leads to Worst Thug

Daytona Beach, Fla., April 8 — (AP)—The FBI tracked down one of its ten most wanted men through a bit of information cleaned from the check of a slain fugitive's automobile license.

Lee Emory Downs, 43, sought in connection with the $10,800 burglary of a San Jose, Calif., telephone office in June, 1948, and his 25-year-old wife Patricia were seized at their luxurious home trailer in nearby Holly Hill yesterday.

They are charged with unlawful flight to avoid prosecution for the San Jose burglary, the FBI said. Downs was a known associate of Walter Lennan who was killed Wednesday near Mojave, Calif., while resisting arrest by the FBI and the California highway patrol, according to the FBI.

When the Montana license on Lennan's car was checked, it disclosed the registration of the trailer which Downs was using. The FBI after a nationwide search of trailer camps found its quarry in the Florida winter resort where Downs and his wife had been living four months.

The pair was to be arraigned today before a U. S. commissioner, the FBI said.

The Montana FBI which supplied the tip learned that Lennan had purchased the lavishly appointed trailer in California and had brought it to Florida. It was purchased for a "George Clarkson," who later turned out to be Downs, agents reported.

Downs, agents reported.

Drouth Is Threat to Wheat Crop

Kansas City, April 8 — (AP) — The Southwest's winter wheat crop is in doubt.

Drouth has it by the throat. Rain is a "must." If a good soaking one doesn't come soon it looks black across the plains known as the nation's wheat basket.

Wheat experts doubt that even an average crop could be harvested if the crop was given every break in the weather from here on in.

Wheat farmers as a rule are generally pessimistic. They lose the crop two or three times a season on paper before harvest time but actually it does look pretty bad this time any way you take it.

Southwest Kansas has had the driest January, February and March on record. In Texas virtually no rain has fallen in the panhandle and on the south plains since last fall. In Oklahoma its dry and the wheat outlook is poor.

Added to this an insect infestation, Tree bugs, the brown wheat mites and cutworms. And the damage grows. Wheat on the southwest flaglands has deteriorated rapidly in the last three or four weeks.

A winter drouth is the main cause. Most experts concede that only a good rain or two within the next few days can save what is left or the crop.

Dust storms already have whipped up and whirled out of the Southwest but there still isn't a dust bowl like the one back in the thirties. The story simply is that there isn't enough moisture now for a decent sort of a crop.

Sunrise Service to Climax
Easter Worship

The 14th annual Sunrise Service will be held at Hope High School Stadium at 8 a. m. Sunday with the Rev. Hamilton, pastor of the First Methodist Church, bringing the message.

A special Easter program has been arranged with all members of the sponsoring Ministerial Association taking part. Residents from the area are invited to take part in the Sunrise Service.

The Negro Ministerial Association announced its 5th annual sunrise service will be held at Hope High School Auditorium with Rev. G. Paschal, bringing the message.

The joy of Easter will be celebrated wherever Christians gather tomorrow, bringing to hearts the ever-hopeful message of the risen Christ.

In the great cathedrals of old world and the new, in all churches and at hilltop services the devout will kneel once again to mark the miracle of the resurrection.

Millions will observe the season in other ways too. It will be a day for fine dress, and flowers, and for children's games and Easter baskets.

The weather was expected to be fair in some sections. New England states, the Pacific Northwest and in Florida.

But for the rest of the country the U. S. weather bureau predicted clouds and some show.

Celebrations already were in progress in ancient Jerusalem where nearly 20 centuries ago Christ suffered, died, and was buried.

Bells thundered out their Easter messages from the Basilica of the Holy Sepulchre, and thousands of other churches as well.

The peal of bells came as a climax of a colorful Holy Week of eastern Orthodox Christians, symbolizing the Christ from the tomb as the Easter story.

Many morning Protestants in St. Andrew's in Jerusalem churchyard were to be buried by shortwave to the United States and Canada.

More than 100,000 pilgrims thronged the streets of Rome at the climax of the Easter observance will come when Pope XII celebrates a pontifical mass in St. Peter's.

Easter in Arkansas is ushered in with traditional services.

Probably the outstanding money will be Hot Springs sunrise Easter service from the summit of Hot Springs mountain beginning at 5:30 a. m. Sunday.

Early 200 singers from the Springfield Choral club and two choral groups will participate in "Holy, Holy, Holy" with a professional, to which the choir mass choir will sing a huge cross. The 30-minute program will conclude with a benediction.

At Little Rock there will be sunrise service on steps of state capital.

Hartford's service will be on Sugar Loaf mountain.

Many other Arkansas churches including Hope and Brinkley will have sunrise services.

GOP Differs on Naming of Dulles

Washington, April 7.—(AP)—President Truman's efforts to rebuild two-party support on foreign affairs pleased some Republicans today but left others sharply critical of his policies.

The President's appointment of John Foster Dulles, Republican who once was a senator from New York, as an adviser to Secretary of State Acheson encouraged the GOP wing led in the past—and still influenced from a sick-room—by Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich.).

But members of a Republican faction foreign policy and seeking to make an issue of it in the political campaign dismissed Dulles' appointment as a gesture meaning nothing to them.

Senator Watkins (R-Utah), one of this group, told a reporter that if the President "thinks he is pleasing all the Republicans in the senate by picking Dulles, he is mistaken."

"Naming an appointee who has no direct contact with and who doesn't know the wishes of the Republicans in the senate doesn't make real bipartisan foreign policy," Watkins said.

Senator Malone (R-Nev.) said that so far as he is concerned Dulles "doesn't represent my thinking on foreign affairs and doesn't represent the thinking of the Republicans who prepared the 1950 platform."

Distant Star

Copyright 1950 by Hermina Black. Dist. by NEA SERVICE, INC.

THE STORY: Clemency Kerion came with Syria Amberley to an elegant but luxurious home in the city. The house belongs to the Kerion family, who are the owners of the house. The house is a beautiful one, with a large garden and a swimming pool. The house is a beautiful one, with a large garden and a swimming pool. The house is a beautiful one, with a large garden and a swimming pool.

Clemency was quite certain of that. As certain as she was that Syria had only hidden her down here this evening as a buffer between people who would otherwise have found this first night of re-union insupportable.

As soon as possible Clemency made her escape. Back in the brightly lit nurseries she told herself that the Amberleys' private affairs were really nothing to do with her.

With the sudden feeling that she must have a breath of fresh air, Clemency slipped her padded silk dressing-gown over her pajamas and opening her window softly went outside.

NORTH AFRICAN nights can be amazingly cold in contrast to the warmth of the day, and this was no exception. Above, the great vault of the sky was like a dark sapphire and all the myriad stars of the desert hung down like golden lamps.

They seemed so near that as she looked up at them, Clemency had the fancy that she could touch them by reaching up.

She put up a hand, and shaking her head at her fancy, dropped it again. The stars were out of reach—like so many other things.

She was half leaning on the balcony rail when at a sound below she drew back abruptly. But from where she stood she could still see the man who had emerged from the shadow of the house and paused, cigar in hand, staring across the sleeping garden.

It was Piers Amberley. The moon was coming up, and in its silver light Clemency saw him clearly. Her first impression of that strong, clear-cut face had been that it was hard and rather cynical. During the evening the impression had been more than once amended. When he smiled there was an extraordinary charm about it; but he was not smiling now.

She felt just as she had earlier about Syria. It was almost as though a mask had dropped, showing the man behind it, and Clemency thought that she had never seen such bitter disillusion on any man's face.

Poultry Industry
Growing Fast in Arkansas

Little Rock, April 7.—(AP)—Arkansas' poultry industry is growing by leaps and bounds.

The federal state crop reporting service announced today that a record number of broilers—38,033,000—were produced in the state in 1949. This was 56 per cent above the previous record—24,330,000 in 1948.

Income from broilers also reached a record high of $29,255,000 last year, compared to $25,234,030 in 1948.

The state's production of "farm chickens" in 1949 totaled 1,597,000, 16 per cent more than the 1948 production.

Gross farm income from eggs and chickens in Arkansas last year was $63,502,000, an increase of five per cent.

Northwest Arkansas a c counted for 81 per cent of the broiler production, the crop reporting service estimated.

indications are there'll have to be lots of warming in the next couple of days if the spring togs are to be worn on Sunday.

Winter Garb
May Be in Order for Easter

By The Associated Press
It looks like winter garb will be appropriate in the Easter Sunday parade over much of the eastern half of the country. And maybe in parts of the south, too.

The weather bureau isn't ready to predict the brand of weather the country may expect Sunday. But in weeks in which an unemployed person can draw jobless pay — also varies from state to state, ranging from 26 weeks to 12.

(Mr. Truman suggests that the duration of payments be made uniform with 26 weeks as a minimum.)

A worker who moves from a covered job in one state to a covered job in another can get jobless pay if he loses his job. It may take a lot of time. His new state writes back to his old state and the old state pays.

(Mr. Truman suggests this arrangement be improved to speed up such payments to jobless workers who have shifted states.)

Employees who come under the law pay a tax that can be greater than three per cent on the first $3,000 or pay of each covered worker.

(Mr. Truman suggests that employers should pay a tax on the first $4,800 so that the unemployment fund be built up.)

There never was a time since the cave man etched his literature on the walls of his adobe whenwriters made as much money as the current crop of hacks in a period that might fairly be labelled by critics in the future, the golden age of garbage. Although Hollywood has collapsed, perhaps to rise again to new heights of absurdity, the racket is still a going concern and the book trade, once a conscientious means of fostering an art and broadening knowledge, has been a cess, unblushing commerce no more esthetic or honorable than radio.

I have recently received an invitation which is indicative I am invited to compose a selection to be printed in a house organ of the New York restaurant known as "21", an expensive tavern noted as well for the spurious art of its litrati as for the toothsome excellence of its provisions. During prohibition, "21" was a speakeasy with a snooty attitude which therefore attracted the novelists and petty thinkers of the hour who, being a sorry lot inside, wished to frequent a joint and put up the cats against the commonality. This gave them to feel that they were carrying trade as, financially, they were, for the golden tide was making and columnists were getting $25,000 a year under the low Republican income tax. It is now an honor to be tapped to do a piece for "21" and I am inflated but aware, nevertheless, that most of the authors in the clientele are but reporters relieved of responsibility for their situations and statements. This I may say, goes for the pundits who harrangue us in books on the Nazis, the Japs and Roosevelt as well as for the fictionists.

The book trade, at my last inquiry some five or six years ago, was turning out 10,000 titles a year. The best sellers among them included the fantastic rubbish entitled "Undercover," done by a trembling snoop calling himself John Roy Carlson, who died a thousand deaths while he waited to interview Senator Bob Reynolds, of North Carolina, an amusing windbag who couldn't split a lip with an axe: Dozens of volumes of cheap fiction stores put forth as living, human documents of the war, and any number of pro-consumist and-or pro-Roosevelt works in which the truth was always subordinated to propaganda or ignored altogether.

The book trade, during this time, was over almost entirely to the political party in power, two notable exceptions being Scribners, under the late Maxwell Perkins, the last of the real book editors, and the house of Devin Adair which, alone, had the integrity and courage to publish John Flynn's "Roosevelt Myth."

The current crop of memoirs is equally tawdry and self-serving and, for this condition, the book reviewing departments and sections of the New York Herald Tribune and the New York Times were responsible to a serious degree. The reviews of Eleanor Roosevelt's memoirs are a disgrace to the free press. The presiding genius at the Herald Tribune had the gall to write that the paper had "cleared" Carlson through the F.B.I. which was false, because the F.B.I. does not give character references except for its own employees and any American journalist who had evidence that it was engaged in such business would have a news story of great importance.

The custom of the press in "reviewing" and promoting the books of favored pot-boilers is to plug the opuses of red, reddish and pink writers and either ignore or knock the books of those who are aggressively pro-American and candidly abhor the Roosevelt reign, including the ghastly gull of Pearl Harbor and Yalta.

There is a large conspiracy against Flynn and the truth about Pearl Harbor as told by George Morgenstern and the late Charles A. Beard. But the damage to these and other authors of similar integrity is petty compared to the great wrong thus inflicted on a public which expects honest treatment of current books and is tricked into
